

Dealing with Difficult Behaviors

This seminar will offer you strategies for dealing with students who exhibit chronic and extreme misbehavior, including violence. You will learn to understand the motivation behind this behavior and intervention techniques to use when it occurs. We will discuss early warning signs of school violence and ways to defuse confrontation so it does not escalate into violence. You will also learn ways to reinforce the positive behaviors the students need to learn.

To all SRP Members,

I am proud to announce the first in a series of online workshops for School-Related Professionals (SRPs) through NYSUT's Education & Learning Trust. Dealing with Difficult Behaviors offers timely and useful strategies for anyone in an SRP job title who works with challenging students. It's only three hours, and you can learn at your own pace using your home computer! The cost is minimal compared to the benefit of learning new skills to grow in your job! For questions, please contact ELT at 800-528-6208.
